Indians Receive Their Pay Today

Indian payment at the agency under the supervision of Indian Agent Col. E. Stecker is being made today. All the Caddos, Wichitas and Delawares will receive $25 each. There is a large gathering of Indians at the agency.

Mr. Chris Oelke, father of democratic candidate for clerk of the District Court, T. G. Oelke, is confined to his bed with sickness.

Little Folks Party

Master John Warren Brown entertained a number of his little friends Monday evening from 5 to 7 with a Halloween party.

A two course luncheon was served and little jack-o-lanterns were given as favors.

Those present were John Wallie, Henley Blackmon, Spencer Jorgenson, Emmet Boyle, Bennie Holding, Muir Hite, Ellis Lawson, Vincent Eccleston, Eugene Die, and John Warren Brown.

Fulton Answers Morgan's Charge

Tells All About Alleged Salary Grab and Captures Audience

Congressman Dick Morgan has been charging that Elmer Fulton was the recipient of a salary grab while in Congress. This has been about the only charge that Dick has been able to make. Fulton made a full and complete answer to that charge in his debate with Morgan at Cherokee last Friday. It is as follows:

"Mr. Morgan charges me with drawing $5,000 in salary more than I was entitled to under the law and that this amount was more than any other member of Congress received. I brand this charge as being, not only false in every particular, but also idiotic. Only the ignorant and unscrupulous politicians resort to such tactics. Just think a moment. Do you believe that a Democratic member of Congress could induce a Republican House to give him $5,000 more in salary than he was entitled to and $6,000 more than any other member? The charge, in addition to being false and idiotic, is unreasonable and inconsistent. Conceding however, that a member of the minority party could do this, you must admit that he would be a 'crackerjack,' as there are only 391 members in the House and for one member to put a bill, raising his own salary past the 390, would certainly be going some. Of course, I could have sold my votes to Cannon and the Trusts, like Mr. Morgan did, and received in return, like Mr. Morgan did, a small appropriation for a postoffice building or 35,000 packages of garden seed. That is the way they pay for votes, and not by giving additional salaries.

"Now, the facts are that I was sworn in and assumed the duties of my office on the same day and hour as every other member of Congress. I not only commenced the same day but put in the same time and performed the same amount of work every other member of Congress did, and not only under the law, but as a matter of right and equity was entitled to the same pay as the other members, and I drew that amount and not a penny more.

"The law fixing the pay of the members of Congress was passed years before I became a member of that body, and according to the usual custom, my salary and the salaries of the other members of the Oklahoma Delegation were appropriated by the Congress previous to the one to which I was elected, and of which I was not a member.

"Mr. Morgan's charge is absolutely false and without foundation, and he knows it. He is simply making this accusation solely for the purpose of attracting your attention from his rotten record, which he has admitted to you tonight as being infeasible."

This reply of Mr. Fulton's fairly carried the large audience off its feet and he was cheered to the echo. This debate won Mr. Fulton hundreds of votes.

Young Folk Took Town Last Night

Did you see the ghost? The spirits were lively last night as they always are Halloween. The young people made merry through the early hours and presented a pretty scene on the streets with their white mantles.

The old town was their's, and with joyful cries they paraded the streets making the sweetest music ever blown along the evening breezes—the merry notes of happy young folks.

Fun? Well yes, for Halloween comes but once a year. Did the boys become mischievous? Sure and strewed the streets with anything they could lay their hands on, and it was sure lots of fun. And the men who gathered up the articles this morning grinned as they thought of the days long ago when they stooped on the corner and watched their fathers do the same thing.

Wagon wheels in the belfries, and the school house surrounded with the belongings of citizens. Oh, those bad, bad boys! Did ever any other boys do such things? No, never lived such boys since—since we were boys.

Hon L. P. Ross is In Anadarko Today

Hon. Leslie P. Ross, prominent democrat and candidate for governor in the primaries, was in Anadarko this morning. Mr. Ross is spending all his time speaking for the democratic ticket. He has just come from a week's work in the south part of the state where he says things are looking good for the democratic ticket. "The voters are going to the polls this fall," said Mr. Ross.

J. B. Boone, manager of the gin at Washita is in Anadarko today looking after business matters.

Bob Dorris of Ft. Worth, Texas, horse and mule buyer is in Anadarko today looking after business.

Candidates Rush Down the Stretch

Brimming with hope and confidence the democratic candidates are out in the field today presenting their claims to the people. They have seen the greater part of the voters of the county, but will be more than busy this the last week of the campaign.

Democrats have every reason to be hopeful. This county has been conducted along safe and economical lines, the tax rate being low as compared with other counties, and the administration has been able to lower the levy this year, by good business judgment.

Owing to the change from Territorial government to state, which called for changes in the system of levying taxes, higher levies than were necessary were made, and as a result it has made taxes higher in many parts of the state. Fortunately in this county taxes have not been so high, and good business judgment has saved the taxpayers of Caddo county thousands of dollars.

From a business standpoint, it will be exercising good judgment to vote for the democrats in this county where taxes have been kept down, and are lower this year than usual.

Douglas-Edwards

Barnell Douglas, who has recently located in Anadarko, and Miss Ora Edwards were quietly married at the Baptist parsonage in Chickasha last Saturday evening at 8 p. m. The home of the bride is in Chickasha and Mr. Douglas was a resident of that city prior to moving to Anadarko.

The young couple will begin housekeeping here in a few days. They will be welcomed to Anadarko by everyone.

T. G. Oelke, democratic candidate for clerk of the district court returned Friday from a canvass in the northeast part of the county.

The foundation work of the St. Patrick's Mission is completed and is ready for the brick work which will proceed without delay.

Reason Why It Costs Us More

The big shows that play in cities, can't play Anadarko at the same prices.

First, They pay railroad fares, hotel bills, baggage, transfer and hauling scenery, excess on same into and out of the towns that they play one or two nights. The day rates at hotels are much greater than the week or month rate. They pay for printing dates, posting paper and other advertising. Besides a higher rate of salary is required on the road than in stock by actor folks.

Everybody charges the show people the limit on the road and the larger and more prosperous the company looks and seem, the higher the tax. Therefore the price for the show must bring the expense equivalent.

These big attractions advertise the town, the country, its prosperity, thrift and energy and appreciation, good fellowship, wealth etc., and every one we bring here must leave as a booster for Anadarko. Virtually he will wear a sign on him displaying Anadarko in big letters.

Actors are just plain human creatures, some are made eccentric by their line of parts.

Managers are just plain ordinary business men whose lines are dealing in amusement.

Actresses, actors, chorus girls, managers, mechanics and all people who make the show, like to mail picture postals of the towns they visit, write home about the country they are in and so let's send those reports out in favor of Anadarko.

In the Courts

Jim Williams, colored, pleaded guilty to the charge of assaulting his sister-in-law, Edna Williams, in Judge Arends court Monday, and was assessed a fine of $10 and costs. There was also a charge of larceny of hogs against Williams, but the evidence was not sufficient to convince the judge of guilt, and the case was dismissed.

Alfred Dawson of Gracemont, pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny of 172 pounds of cotton in Judge Arends court Monday and was assessed a fine of $10 and costs.

A. B. Garrett, charged with aiding and assisting Fred Garrett in an assault on the person of I. C. Moaden last Thursday, was arraigned in Judge Arends court Monday. The case was set for trial Nov. 9th, and Garrett gave bond in the sum of $100.

Suit for divorce was filed in the district court Monday by Mary Geseke. She seeks separation from her husband on the grounds of cruelty and desertion which allegations are set up in the petition, and also asks for the restoration of her maiden name.

R. H. Shelby has filed suit for divorce praying for separation from his wife, Lorena Shelby, against whom he makes the charge of gross neglect and desertion.

G. O. P. CELEBRATES BEFORE ELECTION

Saturday was republican day in Anadarko. Hon. B. M. Parmenter of Lawton the "lightning linguist" of the republican party was the principal speaker and to say that republicans were pleased is putting it mildly. Parmenter comes from the far northeast, where republicanism is a religion and Parmenter is strong in the faith.

A large crowd of the faithful greeted the speaker at the opera house, and they unstintingly applauded him as he directed his lightning shafts against the tabernacle of democracy.

After the speaking a banquet was held at the K. C. hotel, where the elite of the party—the favored ones who live on the fat—feasted and made merry, hoping for the time when every day is a picnic, and all the world is "there'n."

Frank Eaton, son and daughter of Ft Cobb are in Anadarko today shopping and visiting friends.

Dr. D. O. White of Eskley was a visitor at Anadarko today.

EYES ARE LOOKING TOWARDS OKLAHOMA

That there will be a large influx of immigration into Oklahoma from all parts of the U. S. within the next six months is very evident from the many inquiries being made by the parties seeking new homes from the various Commercial organizations. People throughout the country are beginning to realize the possibilities for success in all lines of business and agricultural pursuits and are preparing to leave their old homes in the east and north and are looking to Oklahoma to better their conditions. Professional men are desirous of getting away from the overcrowded cities, farmers are wanting to leave their old worn out land, laboring men are desirous of coming to a country where work is plenty, wages good and an opportunity is offered to secure a home.

Following are some inquiries received by the secretary of the commercial club in the past few days: G. M. Thomas, Cleveland, Ohio, "I write for information about the farming conditions and prices of improved and unimproved land in Caddo county, and especially close within driving distance of your town."

T. Burton Edwards, St. Louis, Mo. "I am desirous of obtaining a good location for the practice of medicine and surgery. Your town has been favorably recommended to me. Will you kindly give me further information as to its population, churches, schools, hospitals, doctors, industries, surrounding country, etc?"

R. C. Keating, St. Louis, Mo. "I should be very glad if you will give me some information about Anadarko. I desire to make a change in location and have heard your city spoken of as being particularly progressive and enterprising."

"LOOKS GOOD" SAYS PROMINENT DEMOCRAT

Albert Shields of Enid Oklahoma was in Anadarko this morning looking after matters for the state democratic committee. Mr. Shields has been pretty well over the southwest part of the state and reports that democracy is in fine condition.

"There is only one question and that is whether democrats will go to the polls. Election cannot be won by staying at home," said Mr. Shields.
